0d 0a characters are getting blocked in Outlook Web

Well, they aren't working because the security software sees the format as an attack. Without more information, I'm not sure why they are working in Outlook and not OWA, unless Outlook is converting the the characters to line breaks.

HTML mail actions for Rules 501722 Drupal org

When I view the source markup in the email client (outlook) %0A is replaced with a new line but it needs to remain %0A in the source for the mailto to have a newline in the resultant email. I am not sure if this is a mail client issue - its seems not since the source markup has a new line thus it received the source without the %0A. The source email is recieved with %20 which is the HEX for
